'Parivartan' – The Slum Education Programme

3rd August, 2014 activity of 'Parivartan'- the Slum Education Programme, a CSR initiative of ITS, Ghaziabad, shared some crucial and life saving information with the slum children along with other routine activities.

Volunteers of the day – Mashooq Ahmad Malik, Shubhajit Mitra, Krittika Tayal, Vishal Tiwari, Chhatoi Rakesh Taunk and Tarun Kumar started the activity with the information on SOS. The little participants were given certain situations and were asked how they would respond like – if you are left all alone in an unknown city, if you see uncontrollable fire somewhere, if you sense there are thieves in your or neighbour's house, if you see an accident on road and someone bleeding etc.

The slum children were informed about dialing 100 for police, 101 for fire brigade and taking an accident victim to the hospital emergency. They were also told to fix a password with their parents so that if someone appears on the way and says that the parents of the child have asked him to take the child home, the child can ask this person the password which will ensure the safety of the child.

This was followed by the practice of a patriotic poem which the children enjoyed a lot. The activity ended with the distribution of biscuits and chocolates among all the children as routine. Faculty coordinator Prof. Gopal Krishna Dwivedi accompanied the volunteers and enjoyed the visit.

‘Parivartan’ – The Slum Education Programme “Raksha Bandhan Celebration

10th August, 2014 activity of ‘Parivartan’, the Slum Education Programme, a CSR initiative of ITS, Ghaziabad shared the reason and importance of celebrating Raksha Bandhan with the slum children.

Volunteers of the day – Anurag Tiwari, Mashooq Ahmad Malik and Pushpank Kaushik started the activity by wishing the slum-buds a very Happy Raksha Bandhan. They explained the reason for celebrating and the significance of the festival. They also told the children the story of Emperor Humayun and Rani Karnawati.

Rani Karnawati was the widowed queen of Chittor, which had been attacked by Bahadur Shah, Sultan of Gujarat. The queen realized that defending her empire from the invasion was not possible for her and for protection and help, she sent a Rakhi to the Mughal Emperor, Humayun. On receiving the rakhi, the Emperor was overwhelmed and became emotional.

He, along with his troops, immediately set out to protect Chittor from the invasion. Alas, he could not reach on time. The Sultan of Gujarat had, by then, reached the queen’s fortress. All the women, in the fortress including Rani Karnawati had performed Jauhar (mass suicide) by then. Humayun, on reaching the fortress, fought with Bahadur Shah and evicted him from the land. The empire was handed over to Rani Karnawati’s son, Vikramjeet Singh. Since then, the act of a sister tying a rakhi on the wrist of her brother indicates lifelong protection from him.

At the end of the celebration, the children enjoyed singing – ‘Phoolo ka taro ka sabka kehna hai, ek hazaaro mein meri behna hai. Sari umar hamein sang rehna hai....’ The activity ended with the distribution of biscuits and chocolates among all the children as routine.

‘Parivartan’ – The Slum Education Programme

24th August, 2014 activity of ‘Parivartan’, the Slum Education Programme, a CSR initiative of ITS, Ghaziabad was an unprecedented experience for the PGDM entrants who have recently shown their interest to do something for the suffering or ignored sections of the society.

Volunteers of the day – Neha Singh, Vikash Kumar, Hena Das, Sneha Lal, Vishal Babu Gangwar, Chhatoi Rakesh Taunk, Mashooq Ahmad Malik, Vinod Kumar and Pallav Prakash started the activity with the practice of Hindi alphabets. Such an exercise was done this earlier too but approx forty percent of slum dwellers keep changing continuously as they move to different jobs and livelihoods, therefore it becomes a must to repeat and revise basics now and again.

The practice of Hindi alphabet ended in a poetical form when the little buds practiced – Anaar ke daane laal laal, Aam khate mitthe laal, Imli khatti meethe ber, Eekh ke khet mein ghus gaya sher. Ullu ki hai aankhein gol, oodbilaav golmatol. Ek bilauta ghar ko jata, ainak pehne bhalu aata. Okhal laao kooto dhaan, Aurat dekho badi mahaan.

The last segment of the day was the recitation and practice of a poem which the children learnt in minutes and enjoyed a lot. PGDM freshers who made their debut at the slum were visibly satisfied and happy with the visit and the experience. Faculty coordinator Prof. Gopal Krishna Dwivedi guided and accompanied the volunteers.

Parivartan-The Slum Education Programme

15th August, 2014 activity of Parivartan - the Slum Education Programme (a CSR initiative of ITS, Ghaziabad) made the Vasundhara slums rock and thunder with the patriotic song and slogans sung and shouted as part of the Independence Day Celebration.

Volunteers of the day – Neeraj Kumar, Shubhajit Mitra, Shayan Das Gupta, Ravi Prasad, Kritika Tayal, Tarun Kumar, Anurag Tiwary, and Vishal Babu Gangwar, Anuj Gaur, Alok Sharma, Pooja Singh, Vinod Kumar, Shiv Kumar, Vishal Tiwari, Avishek Pandey, Aman and Sumati started the activity by decorating the celebration spot with balloons, flags and tricolor ribbons.

As soon the little revolutionaries assembled, the Independence Day celebration started. The volunteers explained the significance of the day and the national flag. They also compared the life of Indians when they were not free and when they got freedom. The children also practiced popular patriotic song – ‘Sare jahaan se achchha Hindostan hamara, hum bulbulein hai iski ye gulistaan hamara’. Along with the practice, meaning of difficult words and the explanation of important lines were also given so that the children absorb the song well.

At the end of the celebration, the children shouted patriotic slogans like – ‘Vande Maatram, Jai Jawan – Jai Kisaan and Jai Hind. The activity ended with the distribution of laddoos and a replica of tricolor flag. Faculty coordinator Prof. Gopal Krishna Dwivedi guided and accompanied the volunteers.

Parivartan-The Slum Activity

31st August, 2014 activity of Parivartan - the Slum Education Programme (a CSR initiative of ITS, Ghaziabad) made the slum dwellers familiar with the importance of vitamins, minerals and protein in food.

Volunteers of the day – Gopal Dixit, Aditya Sinha, Sankalp Katiyar, Shivam Mishra, Neha Singh, Krittika Tayal, Tarun Kumar, Alok Sharma, Neeraj Kumar, Anuj Gaur, Vishal Tiwari and Khadija Abdeen started the activity by informing the little students about the hygienic and good food. They briefed them about the importance of important vitamins like vitamin A, B, C, D, Proteins and Calcium. The volunteers told them the sources of the aforementioned substances and the diseases that occur due to deficiency of each one of them. After the presentation, a quiz was conducted to find out the actual absorption of the message. The prompt and correct replies were awarded with the on the spot prizes.

The last segment of the day was the recitation and practice of a health oriented poem ‘Gol-gol ye laal tamaatar, ho jaate mere gaal tamaatar, taakat se bharpoor tamaatar, hum ho jate khud laal tamaatar’ which the children recited in full volume and enjoyed a lot. The activity ended with the distribution of cookies and chocolates. Faculty coordinator Prof. Gopal Krishna Dwivedi guided and accompanied the volunteers.

Session on Meditation by Swami Chidrupanandji

Pujya Swami Chidrupananda of Chinmaya Mission blessed I.T.S campus with his divine presence on 21st August, 2014, and addressed the management and IT students of I.T.S as part of the orientation program. The theme of the talk was ‘Ordinary to Extra Ordinary’.

It was a great learning to understand systematically the 2 aspects to the so called mind- the one that knows what’s right and what needs to be done vs. the one that makes the choice on what to do.

The sessions methodically made one understand the steps to intellectual growth and control over this flaky uncontrolled mind. At the individual level, it is understandably the most important thing to observe the direction of the voice in the head that knows what is right (The Intellect) vs. the actual direction taken by the other voice in the head that makes the decision (The Mind).

The key take away from the ‘ordinary to extraordinary’ sessions was that everyone has this Intellect as a guiding force, guiding every human through this maze & traffic called Life. But our minds are on the loose, trumping every good cry of the intellect. Therefore with the right skill to program the mind it is possible to control it in the direction of growth and peace.

The session was greeted by Director General, Professor Shekhar Ghose, Director Management, Dr. Sapna Rakesh, HOD – IT, Dr. S.K. Pandey and others. The coordinator of the session was Prof. Vijesh Jain of I.T.S, Ghaziabad
